- A. DIA 15749
B. FROM 3986
C. [ ] 622

1. During the visit of [ ] to [ ] in March, 1964, [ ] Station officers took the opportunity to review with him the history of ARMBUSH/15's operations and obtained his evaluation of the man's performance. The Station was especially interested in the manner in which 1/15 handled his role in the recruitment of [ ] and [ ] favorable assessment of the [ ] of [ ] and [ ]

2. The Station agreed to take over A/15, but whether or not [ ] can honestly take over responsibility for the running of [ ] depends upon whether that individual's future parts of call are predominantly in Sweden or Germany. Handling of [ ] of course, remains with [ ], as A/15 is now completely cut off from this operation.

3. Taking advantage of [ ] presence, [ ] was introduced to A/15 by [ ] on the evening of 26 March under the name of [ ] It was explained to the man that [ ] was bowing out of the picture and that for the indefinite future [ ] would be his mentor. This however went down as an obvious sheet to A/15. He did not lodge any complaints and accepted the situation with as much grace as possible, but he probably is not happy with the change. In effect was made to convince A/15 that [ ] is not normally stationed in [ ] but moves around Scandinavia. Over the turn for several weeks, and that the first operational contact would not take place for about three weeks. Contact arrangements were made, naturally.

4. The [ ] Station is looking forward to developing the operational activities of A/15. A number of difficulties limit immediate exploitation, however. Number one is [ ] a KRO from [ ] in early June, the natural case officer to take over the contact in the SA replacement for [ ] who probably will not arrive before mid-July at the earliest. Secondly, there is the language barrier. Goodwin is the only source language between A/15 and [ ] A/15's German is apparently good, too. While he and [ ] were able to converse on general matters, detailed operational discussions will be slow in the beginning.

4. For Reference B, [ ] shall receive the necessary information, as well as the [ ]
